Bank of San Francisco Launches “Catering to the Community” Initiative to Support Restaurants and Benefit Frontline Workers

SAN FRANCISCO – May 6, 2020 – Bank of San Francisco, (OTCQX: BSFO), the modern Bay Area community bank that supports the entrepreneurial goals of people, businesses and nonprofits, announced today the launch of “Catering to the Community,” an initiative to support local small businesses and benefit frontline workers of government agencies and nonprofit organizations during the coronavirus pandemic.

Bank of San Francisco is purchasing gift cards from its restaurant clients in the Bay Area and donating them to government and nonprofit workers who are out front during this critical time. So far, the restaurants include:

- 4505 Burgers & BBQ,
- Andytown Coffee Roasters,
- b. patisserie,
- Bamboo Asia,
- The Little Chihuahua,
- Subway,
- and Sushirrito.

Beneficiaries of the donations include:

- First Responder EMTs,
- Emergency room and hospital staffs,
- Nonprofit workers assisting the homeless,
- Nursing home staff,
- Muni drivers and public health workers,
- Fire fighters,
- Police officers,
- and, labor union members working in hospitality.

“We support the businesses, agencies and nonprofits that support our community in this time of crisis,” said Ed Obuchowski, Chief Executive Officer of Bank of San Francisco. “We started ‘Catering to the Community’ to extend that support, in a more tangible way, during this difficult time.”

Restaurants are turning to creative solutions to keep customers and revenues flowing. Some have devoted part of their space to selling prepared food and other household food items.
